2023

At the end of every year, my husband and I set aside time to reflect on the previous 365 days. We begin with this question: “what struck you last year?” Here’s what struck me at Nadege in 2023.

In the midst of continued unrest and instability in Haiti, Nadege’s staff, residents and graduates continued to move forward through hardship. Not only did they move forward, but they found a way to thrive.

Residents bravely processed through their past trauma and engaged in the hard work of healing. Some learned how to sew and create beautiful pieces of clothing; while others began the journey of completing their education at a local school.

The staff team remained steadfast in helping residents and graduates meet their goals, and the work of restoring hope continued because of their endurance and YOUR generosity.

We are continually struck by your willingness to come alongside women and their children in Haiti. Thank you for partnering with us!

Gratefully,
Emily Hays

MISSION | OVERVIEW | TESTIMONY

MISSION

Restoring hope to survivors of sexual violence in Haiti.

OVERVIEW

2023 was a year of hope shining through the darkness. We watched a brave survivor graduate and successfully transition back into the community and continued to serve both residents living at the safe house as well as former graduates.

TESTIMONY

At Nadege, I found the affection I needed. I found everything I needed. So, I wondered if it was really me who was becoming capable of putting into words everything I had suffered. I started to congratulate myself. The psychologist helped me a lot. She was always available and willing to help me even outside of her working days. She always supported me when I was discouraged. She was always there for me. At one point I had suicidal thoughts, the psychologist gave me beneficial advice. Which I hadn't really received before. Now I have completed all phases of the Nadege program. I'm getting ready to leave the Safe House.

2023 SUCCESS STORIES

In 2023, we explored new fundraising opportunities by creating greeting card bundles. Volunteers created artwork related to Mother's Day, and we used their images to design a pack of greeting cards.

Art was a major focus of our work in 2023. After our Mother's Day campaign, we invited residents to join in the fundraising journey by creating art, which we then turned into greeting cards as well.

Our Giving Tuesday Campaign this year focused on Marie Hays' enthusiasm for friendship bracelets.

Our biggest success story from 2023 was the graduation of another survivor from our program.

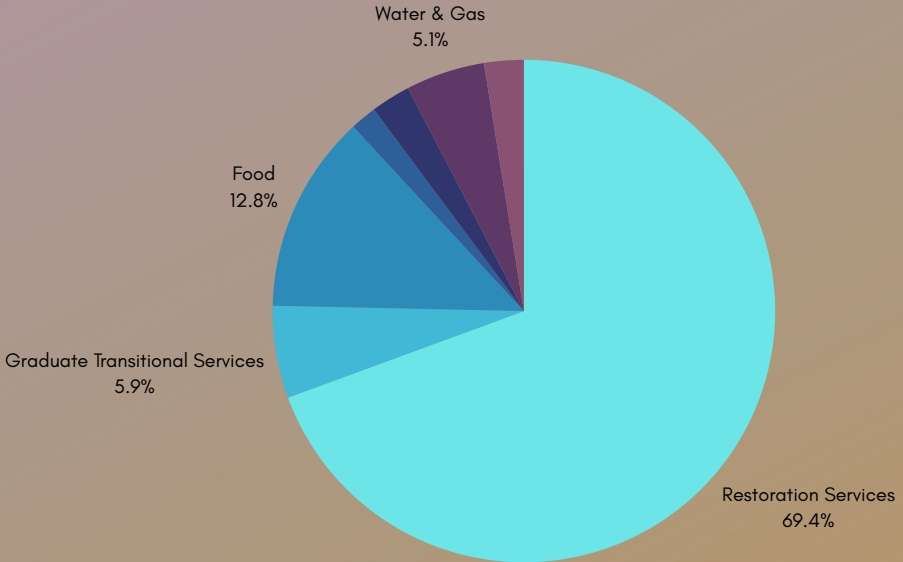

A group of women are gathered for a birthday celebration. In the background, there are white and red balloons, and a sign that says 'BIRTHDAY' with a crown icon. The women are dressed in casual, colorful clothing. One woman on the left wears a multi-colored striped dress. Another woman in the center wears a pink and white striped shirt and white jeans with holes. A woman in the foreground wears a bright pink hoodie with floral sleeves and blue jeans. To her right, another woman wears a pink t-shirt and blue jeans. The scene is brightly lit, suggesting an indoor party setting.

STAFF

“The Nadege clinical and operational team did a continued remarkable work during the entire 2023 year in providing the resident of our safe house with the necessary psychosocial support. This photo taken during our last graduation ceremony taken place on September 2023 reflects their joy, passion and commitment to work hard to restore hope to women survivors of sexual violence in Haiti. Despite a tumultuous socio-political climate constituting a permanent risk factor for Nadege work in Haiti, our staff goes above and beyond every day to achieve our objectives, restore hope to survivors and ensure them a better future. Such a pleasure to have such competent and dedicated staff.”

--Clinical Director, Jeff Cadichon

Hopes for 2024:

- Continue to come alongside graduates to empower them to care for both themselves and their families.
- Continue to serve our residents by focusing on clinical services, trade school, literacy services and working towards successfully transitioning them into the community.
- Welcome new residents into the safe house.
- Purchase solar panels to address continual power outages and reduce energy costs at the safe house.
- Stay tuned for exciting announcements in the months to come...

THANK YOU FOR RESTORING HOPE IN HAITI.
